Julian Sorell Huxley {734} was born on 12 Jun 1887 in Bloomsbury, London, England,⁶ died on 14 Feb 1975 in Hampstead, London, England⁷ aged 87, and was buried in Golders Green Cremetorium, London, England.

General Notes: British biologist, philosopher, and author. He was a grandson of T.H. Huxley and brother of Aldous Huxley. His research on hormones, developmental processes, ornithology, and ethology influenced the modern development of embryology, classification, and studies of behaviour and evolution. He applied his scientific knowledge to social and political problems, formulating an ethical theory of "evolutionary humanism." His many books written for the general public, including The Science of Life (1931; with H.G. Wells), were widely read. He served as the first director-general of UNESCO (1946-48).

Aldous Leonard Huxley {735} was born on 26 Jul 1894 in Guildford, Surrey, England⁸ and died on 22 Nov 1963 in Los Angeles, California, USA aged 69.

General Notes: Aldous Leonard Huxley (26 July 1894 – 22 November 1963) was an English writer and one of the most prominent members of the famous Huxley family. He spent the latter part of his life in the United States, living in Los Angeles from 1937 until his death in 1963. Best known for his novels and wide-ranging output of essays, he also published short stories, poetry, travel writing, and film stories and scripts.

Huxley was a humanist and pacifist, but was also latterly interested in spiritual subjects such as parapsychology and philosophical mysticism. He was also well known for advocating and taking hallucinogens and is considered by many to be the "spiritual father" of the hippie movement.

Descendants of Julia Sorrell

By the end of his life Huxley was considered, in some academic circles, a leader of modern thought and an intellectual of the highest rank
